Gym bus is ready to roll!

Double-decker to get more people active

By TOM MOSELEY

A double decker bus has been fitted with exercise equipment to create Britain's first 'mobile gym'.

Residents will no longer have to walk to the gym because the state-of-the-art kit will be driven around Blackburn and Darwen on demand, complete with a qualified fitness instructor.

The borough of Blackburn with Darwen has some of the worst health statistics in the country, and the charity behind the scheme said it would help people who would not usually use a gym to become more active.

Blackburn with Darwen Health Living, based in Bangor Street Community Centre, works to improve health of people living in deprived communities.

Chairman Abdul Mulla said: "We want to develop a service people can use, regardless of where they live."

The mobile gym will be launched in March.

Its upper deck will be set aside as a 'kitchen area', offering advice on issues like healthy eating and cooking and food labelling.

Each of the borough's five neighbourhood board committees, which hand council cash to community groups, will be asked to pay for a number of two-hour gym sessions for their area. For example, three two-hour sessions a week for 48 weeks will cost £16,000.

Michael Law-Riding, the council's executive member for leisure, said: "Novel ideas like this are always welcome and I very much hope it's a success. If they can make an impact in some of the hard-to-reach areas it's great."

Couple grateful for Ozzy help

A couple have thanked a community for their 'phenomenal response' to an appeal to help find a dog lost in deep snow.

Sadly, Spanish-born German Shepherd Ozzy died after running away from his Rishton home, just hours after arriving in the country for the first time.

Despite the tragic ending, Ozzy's owner Catherine Harris said she and her husband, John, were extremely thankful for the many calls about sightings of Ozzy, who ran off during freezing weather conditions earlier this month.

Youths battle

Police say they are winning the battle against anti-social behaviour in a Whitebirk park. Youths have been moved on by police in Delph Lane Park, Blackburn, following reports of juvenile nuisance.

No new reports of broken glass, fresh graffiti or anti-social behaviour have been received by officers.

School plans

A bid to make Peel Park Primary School, Accrington, more accessible for the disabled has been received by Hyndburn Borough Council.

The plans would see two disabled access ramps and a new access created from the public footpath at the Alice Street school.

Cram in running for Jane's 10k race

By TOM MOSELEY

One of Britain's greatest runners is hoping to take part in the area's first 10k run this summer.

Steve Cram, a former world record holder over 1,500m, 2,000m and a mile, was launching the Pennine Lancashire 10k, which takes place in Blackburn on July 11.

He said: "I am absolutely determined to be here on the day. I should be able to run it, I'm pretty sure."

Organisers of the event, supported by our sister newspaper the Lancashire Telegraph, hope to attract thousands of entrants. And the Olympic silver medalist said 10k was the perfect distance to encourage as many people as possible to take part. He said: "It's a really nice distance. If you're a serious runner you can try and push yourself, or you could just turn up and walk it."

Last week's launch, at Blackburn Town Hall, was attended by charity representatives who are hoping to make the most of the event. But a planned race between charity mascots, and those of Blackburn Rovers and Burnley FC, had to be called off due to a sudden downpour.

The Pennine Lancashire 10k is being organised by charity Run For All, launched by tireless campaigner Jane Tomlinson, who raised £1.8million for good causes before she lost her battle with cancer in 2007.

Jane's husband, Mike, is behind the event, which is expected to rotate around East Lancashire in future years.

He said he hoped to get a turnout as close as possible to the maximum 5,000 runners, with 600 tickets sold already.

He added: "To have Steve Cram come down on the day is a real boost.

"We will have thousands of people and it should be a great event."

STARTER'S ORDERS: Left, Mike Tomlinson and former Olympic athlete Steve Cram join charity and sports mascots to launch the 10k. Above, Jane Tomlinson.

BACKING THE CAUSE: Farmer David Coar, of Yew Tree Farm, Livesey, with a tool on his tractor on which he injured himself

I Promise to take more care

By CATHERINE PYE

A Blackburn farmer is backing a national campaign to improve agricultural safety after badly injuring his hand.

David Coar, 44, who runs Yew Tree Farm, in Broken Stone Lane, Livesey, cut his left hand after catching it on tractor equipment while forking silage.

Now he is urging famers to think more about health and safety and join up to the Health and Safety Executive's (HSE's) Make the Promise campaign.

The idea is that small green bows of rope issued by the HSE are placed around farms in areas where dangerous accidents could occur.

One in five work-related deaths is in agriculture, despite only 1.5 per cent of the population working in the industry. During the past five years, two people were killed and another 132 seriously injured in farming accidents in Lancashire.

Mr Coar, who lives on the 125-acre beef and sheep farm with wife Laura, 40, and daughter Gemma, 19, said: "It's definately a good idea as farmers work long hours, so it's important they're reminded how vital their safety is.

"I was lucky that my injury wasn't worse. I was in a rush on Christmas Eve forking bales of silage from the teeth of a tool and cut my finger badly. If I'd have caught my wrist or a main artery, then it would have been a completely different story.

"It takes me a bit longer to feed the sheep now as I use a bucket on the front of the tractor to lift the bales, but it's definately worth spending a few extra minutes to make sure I can feed them safely."

Wife Laura said: "Anything that makes farmers think twice has got to be welcomed.

"David was very lucky. If he had have been more badly injured and couldn't work for a long period of time, the impact on the farm and the family would have been very serious."

More than 1,100 farmers in the region have already signed up to the Make the Promise campaign, and more are being encouraged to do the same.

Breast proves best for Sean

A Darwen-based breastfeeding company with more than 100 female staff has appointed its first male worker.

Sean Hughes, 48, has been taken on as a branch manager for Little Angels Breastfeeding Support, whose headquarters are in Railway Road.

Married with a nine-year-old daughter, Sean was the only male to apply for the position.

He said: "I saw the advert for the job and my wife told me I was wasting my time. She said mums would not be comfortable with a male assisting with breastfeeding issues."

He added: "I have been well received so far, I'm in charge of the day-to-day management of the office and responsible for 21 staff.

"I'm not actually going out to help women, that wouldn't be appropriate, but I am an advocate of breastfeeding.

Sean is managing the Essex branch of the company.

No 'sacred cows' in health cuts

By PETE MAGILL

Management jobs and experienced health professionals could be lost as an East Lancashire health trust looks to make cuts of £46million.

Plans to make savings at NHS East Lancashire are still at an embryonic stage, but finance director Chris Dixon has warned there can be 'no sacred cows' in terms of meeting anticipated budget targets.

Several areas will be examined as the trust ponders a 'best case scenario' of red-ucing its core budget by £46million, including decom- issioning services, review-ing existing contracts and redesigning individual units. But already a 'value for money' steering group set up by the NHS body has identified more than £700,000 in potential cutbacks in management and administration costs.

Further talks are planned over another £30million worth of trust work which could be reconfig-ured, to save money.

Another initiative is being trialled, a voluntary severance scheme, which could also have a limited effect on staffing costs. The trust, with the severance scheme, is also looking to identify vacancies where posts do not need to be replaced, or can be filled from redeployees from elsewhere in the organisation.

Personnel head Janet Whitworth has said that this will only apply to those posts where annual savings of £17,000 could be made.

Only those with at least two years' service could apply for the scheme and the maximum they could qualify for, in payout terms, would be 30 weeks.

Mr Dixon said the scale of the cuts was the most severe he had experienced within the NHS. "There are no sacred cows here and we have to be aware of that fact," he added.

Trust chairman Kathy Reade added: "This is not an option. We have to deliver whatever is asked of us here."

The trust is also being asked to ensure it can deliver a balanced budget plus 2per cent extra efficiencies for 2010-11.

MOST SEVERE: Finance director Chris Dixon

Faith's parents to start charity

The family of a baby which died after a seven-day fight for life wants to set up a charity in her memory.

Doctors switched off the life-support machine for Faith Cook last Thursday after she showed no improvement in her condition.

Her mum Helen Benson, 26, and dad Tom Cook, 31, now want to remember their daughter by fund raising in her name.

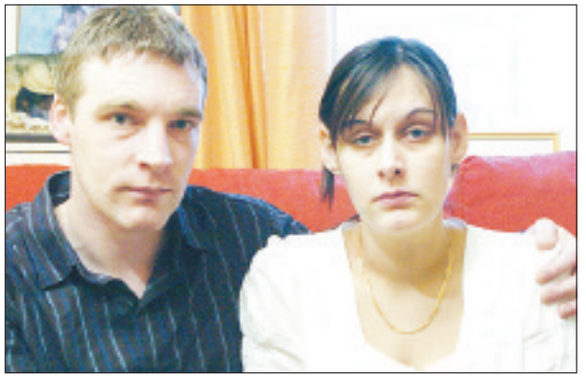
The pair said doctors at Royal Blackburn Hospital, where Faith spent her life attached to a life-support machine, believed she had contracted toxoplasmosis in the womb. After the birth she could not breathe on her own. But now doctors do not believe it was toxoplasmosis that killed her, because Mrs Benson had the infection before Faith was conc-eived.

A post-mortem examination is to be completed this week in a bid to discover what killed her and the family hopes to hold her funeral within the next two weeks.

Mrs Benson said: "We want to raise awareness of the dangers of toxoplasmosis. Not enough is known about the condition and the devastating affect it can have.

"Even though we now know Faith probably didn't die because of the condition, we have been shocked at the lack of information about it.

"Through the creation of a charity, we want to raise money to produce leaflets and posters for expecting mothers and we also hope to work with Derian House children's hospice."



HOPE: Tom Cook and Helen Benson want to start a charity in memory of Faith, below

Toxo-plasmosis is caused by a parasite that gets into the bloodstream. The day of Faith's death was the first time Mrs Benson had been able to hold her daughter.

In the UK, about 2,000 women a year contract the condition while they are pregnant. The effect on the baby depends on how early it is caught.

Faith's funeral is at Hillside Methodist Church, Parke Road, Brinscall, on February 11. It is family flowers only and donations can go to the hospital's neo-natal intensive care unit. People are requested not to wear black. The time is to be confirmed.

'Give us more cash' plea

A councillor has criticised the amount of regeneration cash given to Blackburn with Darwen.

The borough was given the third largest allocation of East Lancashire's Housing Market Renewal cash, behind Burnley and Pendle, according to figures released last month.

Labour resources spokesman Dave Harling claimed bosses should have lobbied for more than their £10million share. At a council meeting, he said: "If we are not directly involved, we will not be getting the allocation we should get. We are the biggest borough in East Lancashire, with the biggest housing problem. Why are we not getting the biggest allocation?"

Lib Dem housing boss Salim Lorgat said: "We are the most successful borough at tapping into any funds that are available."

Homes plan hits car park hope

COUN BRITCLIFFE

By EMMA CRUCES

A site earmarked to replace parking spaces lost to a controversial bus lane could instead be developed for housing.

Hyndburn Borough Council leader Peter Britcliffe is urging county chiefs to buy the Union Road site next to Oswaldtwistle Civic Theatre to provide 'vitally needed parking' before it is too late.

Lancashire County Council has suggested turning the former Peel Court care home site into a car park to replace parking lost to the Rapid Transit scheme.

But the privately-owned land is up for sale, with planning permission granted for housing.

Coun Britcliffe said the parking was 'a must' for businesses and schools in the area, 'regardless' of the Rapid Transit bus lane scheme becoming a reality.

He also fears any development would make the site too expensive for a council to buy later.

He has now made an offer to Lancashire County Council that if it bought the land, the borough council would take responsibility of transforming it into a car park.

He said: "Parking is urgently needed in this area because as well as protecting the future of businesses on Union Road, there is also a school and the civic theatre to think of.

"A wrong was done to the community by the county's previous administration, when this site was sold at public auction a few years ago.

"I am asking the present county council to right that wrong and we will work in joint partnership with them.

"It is a win-win situation for everyone if action is taken quickly enough."

The proposed bus lane between Accrington, Blackburn and Darwen would see extra restrictions to on-street parking at Union Road.

Mike Kirby, director of strategic planning and transport at the county council said: "We will look closely at his suggestion. We are in regular contact with the borough council and the matter of car parking in Oswaldtwistle will no doubt be discussed soon."

Tough guy wipes out his TV rivals

By DAVID WATKINSON

CELEBRATING: Jeremy toasts his win with fellow workers Mark Slattery, Gary Smart-Smith and Joanne Rainford. Above, Jeremy on the course.

An East Lancashire man has scooped £10,000 after he triumphed on TV's toughest assault course.

Fearless Jeremy Kemp took on the challenge of BBC's Total Wipeout, presented, by Richard Hammond, after being inspired by his family.

He also wanted to outdo his twin Jonathan who previously appeared on the show. Mr Kemp, who lives in Clayton-le-Moors and works as the operations director at Padiham Glass, took first place on the show after battling it out against 19 opponents at the course in the Argentinian capital Buenos Aires.

He was the fastest qualifier in the first round of the show, filmed at a purpose-built course which features a series of challenges based around huge pools of mud and water.

The 38-year-old then completed two further rounds before taking on the Wipeout Zone, a gruelling course testing his endurance, stamina, strength and balance.

Mr Kemp, a football, cycling and badminton enthusiast, said: "It was a fantastic experience and I was so happy to win. It was a very tough task completing all of the events in two days, but it was great fun.

"My family egged me on to apply but I never thought I would win, although I am very competitive.

"My twin brother Jonathan got on the show in 2008, but didn't get past the qualifier. I just wanted to do better than him and impress my family. We were treated very well while in Argentina and had a great time."

The episode was filmed in November after Mr Kemp impressed at a Manchester audition.

But he was heartbroken after being invited back to take part in a champion of champions final, only to miss out because of a broken leg, suffered in a football game. On Saturday, his wife, Michelle, and children Jordan, 16, Mia, 13, Jayden, 11, and James, two, watched the show as he battled to victory.

Mr Kemp said: "All of my friends and family watched the programme and we had a huge party to celebrate."

Her endless work and tireless campaigning has led to her being given many awards and positions. In particular, in 1999 she was given the runner up award for the North West Woman of Achievement by Baker Tilly. She is now a qualified visiting professor. She teaches Law and trains lawyers at Colleges and Universities.

Bushra says ... "My experience in promoting change has shown that to make a real difference in society we need our voice in Parliament – without that we will forever remain dependent on others who are only there for their personal gain and will never listen to us or promote our interests in a practical manner.

There is no point in complaining about the need for change. We have to do something positive to achieve any change. The power of the masses even in third world countries has been proven. One recent example being the fact that in Pakistan, where it is always considered that might is right, the Chief Justice had to be reinstated. The power is in YOUR hands.

YOUR VOTE can make all the difference so please USE IT!

Blackburn left behind - The last 30 years have seen Blackburn left behind other neighbouring towns in matters such as education, employment, trade, business and opportunities. I want to make Blackburn into a City and see a thriving market with thriving small businesses which will increase employment prospects.

Gap between rich and poor - The differences between the rich and poor has increased under Labour especially in Blackburn. I feel the only way to bridge this gap is by boosting trade and small businesses and thus encouraging more employment.

Foreign Policy - Our brave young soldiers enlisted to Defend our country not to attack countries on dubious and disputed reasonings. I want to campaign loudly and constructively to bring our troops home. I want to fight for a change in our foreign policy.

These are amongst many issues which I wish to tackle – please check my website www.bushrairfan.co.uk for details of policies and activities

Emily in with the heavy brigade

Soldier Emily Dearden has spoken about coming under fire in Afghanistan on her first tour of duty.

The Clitheroe private, 20, is a combat medic attached to a platoon in D Company of the 1st Battalion, The Royal Welch Fusiliers.

Emily, who went to St Augustine's RC High School, Billington, has been in the Army since June 2007 and said she felt drained after being deployed on her first operation.

She said: "It was hard work. The kit is extremely heavy to work with, and it is terrifying when you are under constant fire. "The enemy put down a lot of firepower but the lads knew what to do and we managed to move around the battle area as we needed to. As soon as we had casualties the adrenalin and training kicked in."

Despite the nerves she was confident that the operation would be a success: "Before I came out to Afghanistan I took part in exercises. One was a week long and we had amputees acting as casualties so we could practise our skills and be better prepared when we got here."

The platoon suffered a couple of minor casualties and had nothing but admiration for Emily in how she treated them.

Major Neil McKeon, the regimental medical officer, said: "As soon as we had casualties Emily tended to them with speed and efficiency and to the highest standard. She was excellent under pressure."

Mall development on schedule

FINAL work to the exterior of the new Mall shopping centre development in Blackburn town centre is now being completed.

Bosses said that once a watertight structure is finished in the next few weeks main interior works will begin. Initial mechanical and electrical work, floor screeding, plaster boarding and partition works have already started.

Around 3,500 terracotta tiles, which will form part of the final finished look and design on the new building, have also been put in place.

The £66m redevelopment is on schedule for summer completion.

Car criminals blitz

Prolific car criminals in East Lancashire will be targeted over the next two months in a police blitz on vehicle crime.

The major crackdown, called Operation Spartacus, is aimed at reducing victims of car crime in Blackburn with Darwen, Hyndburn and the Ribble Valley throughout February and March.

According to police, half of all thefts from vehicles happen when owners leave them unlocked.

But Chief Inspector Damian Darcy, who is leading the campaign, promised a range of tactics to catch the worst offenders.

He said: "There is probably about 25 people who throughout the year will commit car crime. We'll catch them, they're sent to prison and somewhere along the line the same people will offend again.

"There has been a significant reduction in car crime, it's on a downward trend. This operation is intended to drive it down even further."

A range of high profile activity and various tactics will aim to disrupt the activities of the most prolific car criminals.

Chief Insp Darcy said: "Warning letters will be going out to our prolific offenders, signed by me, telling them we know who they are and where they live.

"We will be carrying out intelligence-led search warrants to find stolen property and targeting hotspot areas using overt and covert methods.

"One tactic we have is a number of sting vehicles deployed throughout the division. They are very successful and a number of prolific offenders have been caught this way."

Valentine's

True romance begins at home

On Valentine's Day true romantics everywhere welcome the opportunity to seek love or celebrate it.

And while the conventional will bombard the objects of their affection with cards, flowers and fluffy toys, on February 14, other suitors will try to win hearts by splashing out on a romantic meal for two.

You'll find an array of restaurants and hotels offering special Valentine's Day dinners, with love-inspired menus and candlelight.

You could also make demonstrations of love in your own home.

You could scatter rose petals all around the home, cook — or arrange to have a chef prepare a romantic dinner — lay on a 'spa' experience, with a luxury hamper, scented candles and a massage therapist.

If you want to go the whole hog, how about redecorating the bedroom, with a 'Will You Marry Me?' proposal written on the wall.

Don't break your heart if your budget won't stretch to lavish gestures.

You can still ensure you have a romantic sanctuary fit for wooing by using a little imagination and treating rooms to lovely gifts.

So get passionate about your living space and prove home is where the heart is.

Sending a love letter spelling out your feelings is rather passe these days, so simply use home accessories to get the point across.

Luckily, cushions bearing loving slogans abound at present because they have the feel-good factor essential for our rocky times, and they might be comforting to cuddle if your feelings are unrequited!

Hand sewing a cushion to read 'Kiss' or 'Hug' is surely a true sign of devotion.

Alternatively, display cushions that just tell it like it is. Mooch's range has cushions that are emblazoned with 'Love' and 'Passion' as well as 'Love & Peace' — suitable perhaps for hapless couples whose romance isn't running smoothly.

Gilded letters hung on a wall or displayed on a shelf, are equally effective. Large silver 'Love' word, £33 from Objects of Design.

Spare your blushes and just hint at your feelings by displaying witty homeware or pretty heart-shaped trinkets.

Start by making a romantic – and practical – entrance with a black door mat bearing a large red heart.

You can't blag singing opera

Laurence Llewelyn-Bowen, 44, found fame as an interior designer on Changing Rooms in 1996. He's since fronted Holiday, Home Front, and The Chelsea Flower Show. He is also a judge on ITV1's Popstar To Operastar, which airs every Friday at 9pm. He is married to Jackie, and the couple have two children.

60 SECONDS WITH ...LAURENCE LLEWELYN-BOWEN

TELL US ABOUT POPSTAR TO OPERASTAR

One of the most fantastic things is that we're taking pop stars, but throwing them into the deep end, because singing opera isn't something you can really busk; you can't blag it. If nothing else, it's a great opportunity for people to enjoy seeing opera in an accessible, much more comfortable way.

HOW DID YOU GET INVOLVED?

I've always been involved with an interest in opera. When I did my fine art training, a very strong part of that was opera design. I think the big thing is my Classic FM show, which is coming into its third year. I think my job on the panel with Katherine Jenkins, Rolando Villazon and Meat Loaf (yes, Meat Loaf!) is that people know who I am.

ARE YOU GOING TO BE TOUGH LIKE SIMON COWELL?

I'm going to be brutally honest, but I won't be stepping into Simon's Cuban heels – that's a little out of my league. I think the makers just thought 'well, he's got nothing to prove, he knows his way around opera, and he's got a good eye for a lady in a frock – let's give him the job and with any luck his madness might balance well with Meat Loaf'.

Diva's souled on Colne!

By JEMMA HUMPHREYS

Ruby Turner, the chart-topping soul sister with attitude, is often described as a diva.

So naturally you'd assume she would be the type to be surrounded by a dozen assistants and demand certain luxuries.

But I was quite shocked when, a few minutes before my agreed slot, she rang me herself for our interview. It's quite normal for an assistant to do the dialling and transfer the call to the star, who sits and waits for instructions while being waited on hand and foot.

But this wouldn't do for Ruby. From the off she was laughing and joking in her trademark husky tones, excited about her latest tour, coming to Colne Muni later this month.

"I've not been to Colne since the Blues Festival in 2008.

"I loved it. It was super. I always remember it to be a really fabulous place," oozed the singer, whose career spans a quarter of a century.

"The vibe at the Colne Blues Festival is very much the vibe you get in Europe.

"It's a great crowd, who really love my kind of music. So I'm very excited to be going back to see Colne again."

● Ruby Turner – Colne Muni, February 19. Tickets on 01282 661234.

Cinema round-up

BROTHERS (15) Love is war as two siblings (Tobey Maguire and Jake Gyllenhaal) are divided by their bond to the same woman (Natalie Portman). Maguire is a revelation as a haunted soldier.

UP IN THE AIR... (15) George Clooney plays a loveless man who earns his living by flying around America making total strangers redundant in Jason Reitman's comedy drama.

THE BOOK OF ELI (15) In a lawless wasteland that once was America, Eli (Denzel Washington) holds the secret to civilisation's rebirth.
